◀ Fine artists, from left, Victoria Pearce, Cathy Lorraway, Anne More and Janet Jardine turned their hands to supporting the Bruce Trail Conservancy with their art show and sale Bruce Trail Inspired 2. Held Nov. 10 to 19 in Burlington, the show donated 30 per cent of proceeds from the sale of paintings to the Conservancy. All of the works paid tribute to views and scenes from the Trail.

▲ Royal Botanical Gardens in Burlington opened their Winter Wonders outdoor experience in Hendrie Park, on Nov. 22.

► The Town of Halton Hills celebrated its 50th anniversary of amalgamation into a municipality, on Jan. 10. Mayor Ann Lawlor, left, invited current and past mayors and councillors for special recognition at a New Year's levee at the Halton Hills Cultural Centre.

Mark Rowe, right, gave a talk on the history of the area, in the John Elliott Theatre. Celebrations will continue through the year.

▲ Laurie and Bruce Mackenzie received a 2023 Brownie Award from The Canadian Brownfields Network for the Grimsby Wetlands project of the Hamilton Naturalists' Club. Formerly the site of a sewage treatment facility, these wetlands were rehabilitated into natural lands. Bruce wrote about this project for the Spring 2021 issue of this magazine.
